Festival on world stage

The International Festival for Business will take place in Liverpool in June and July. The 50-day government-backed festival will host business delegates and trade intermediaries from around the world. Max Steinberg, the festival's chairman, said: "To achieve the government's target of doubling UK exports by 2020, it is essential that our businesses are given the right opportunities to go global. I'm confident we are providing businesses with the right access to markets."
